To whom it may concern

It is with a great deal of interest and enthusiasm that I am sending you my resume. As an accomplished professional, I have extensive experience in diverse areas of the financial services industry. You will see from my resume that I also offer a wealth of experience and knowledge in commercial banking, REO management, lending and asset management, and regulatory compliance.

Upon an in-depth analysis of my impeccable credentials, you will notice that I excel at looking at a large issue and breaking it down to manageable components to achieve the desired goal. I had the opportunity to demonstrate my financial acumen with a broad range of responsibilities. The enclosed resume will provide more information on my strengths and career achievements, which include:

- ❖ Skillfully performing within financial environments requiring focused decision-making.
- ❖ Proven success in delivering optimal performance and maximizing revenue potential.
- ❖ Instrumental in the restructuring of a construction lending department and the creation of a lending division for several banks.

I am confident that my proven track record would be an asset to your organization. I would welcome an opportunity to meet with you to discuss my qualifications and candidacy in further detail. If there are no opportunities available at this time, I would appreciate consideration for suitable opportunities that arise in the future. In the interim, thank you for taking the time to review this letter and the accompanying material.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey A. Thorne
